WHAT ENCOMPASSES FOOD PROVISION?

Wild-captured marine species provide larvae, and larval subsidies support food provisioning needs that cannot be met locally. Food provisioning is also vital for survival, whether as a food source for local communities or as a food source for local economies. Food provisioning is considered a key metric for measuring the success of marine protection efforts.

INVESTING IN OUR FUTURE

MAPPING HUMAN IMPACTS ON THE OCEAN

RESILIENCE:
MUSIC TO OUR EARS

NATURE IS SPEAKING - IT'S TIME TO LISTEN